

Opportunity to Partner with the International TRANSED 2025 Conference

The TRANSED 2025 Conference Planning Committee is offering an opportunity for an International Organization to co-plan and carryout its 2025 Conference. This is an exciting chance for an organization to benefit from the experience and participation of internationally recognized leaders in transportation accessibility and mobility. TRANSED is interested in participating in an existing conference hosted by the partner organization.

About TRANSED

TRANSED is the international conference on mobility and transport for older adults and people with disabilities. Since 1978, TRANSED has been held about every three years. TRANSED conference are milestone events in the field of accessible transportation, attracting researchers, policymakers, transportation operator, consumers, and others from around the world to share innovation and best practices to make transportation and mobility accessible to everyone.

Considerations for Partnership

TRANSED is seeking a partner organization that:

- Has a mission aligned with the interests of the TRB Committee on Accessible Transportation and mobility (AME50);
- Can financially support upfront and advanced costs related to conference planning. TRANSED charges a registration fee, that will than reimburse vendors and conference costs (marketing, food, space, accessibility costs, technology, etc.)
- Demonstrates multi-level support from country and local jurisdictions for accessibility and inclusive mobility for individuals with disabilities and older adults.
- Will collaborate with the TRANSED Conference planning committee to integrate meaningful program content into an existing forum or event hosted by the partner organization.

Creating inclusive transportation and mobility options is a critical topic around the world. Partners can use its relationship with TRANSED to further its work and as an opportunity to build its international reputation as a leader in accessibility.
